DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to because there is inconsistency in labeling of the drawings and the description of elements throughout the specification.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as “amended.” If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either “Replacement Sheet” or “New Sheet” pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action.

The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

3. Claim 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, last four lines, the phrase “allowing the operation portion... given to the operation portion” is generally unclear and not fully understood.

In claim 2, the phrase “extend radially from the mounting portion mounted on a shaft and is connected to the operation portion” is unclear and not fully understood. It is unclear how the shaft relates to the mounting portion. It is unclear exactly what is connected to the operation portion.

In claim 3, “disposed radially in a clearance” is not fully understood.

In claim 4, it is unclear what is meant by “section shape” in the context of the claims.

In claim 5, the term “bent portion” is indefinite in that it is unclear exactly how the element is bent.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Pizzo, US Patent 5,752,759. An electronic equipment comprising an operation tool mounted on a support; wherein said operation tool includes an operation portion 16; a mounting portion 34 formed spaced apart from the operating portion where an impact is applied to the operation tool, the mounting portion being arranged to be mounted on the support member; and a crushable connecting portion 36 for connecting together the operation portion and the mounting portion and allowing the operation portion to move with respect to the mounting portion due to an crushable impact given to the operation portion. The crushable connecting portion is disposed so as to extend radially from the mounting portion mounted on a shaft and is connected to the operation portion of bridge portions, within a clearance as claimed. A bent portion is shown, as can be seen in figure 3, along the cross-sectional length of four of the bridge portions 36.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pizzo. Although a cutaway portion is not explicitly shown by Pizzo, it would have been an obvious matter of design choice to make the different portions of the device of whatever form or shape was desired or expedient. A change in form or shape is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art, absent any showing of unexpected results. In re Dailey et al., 149 USPQ 47. Such a modification is not critical to the design and would have produced no unexpected results.

8. Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pizzo in view of Howie, Jr., US Patent 5,688,461. A tubular out side piece is not shown by Pizzo. Howie teaches this general concept at 15, as an outer covering for a knob type device. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made for one skilled in the art to have included in the design of Pizzo such a modification, as generally taught by Howie, for the purpose of providing an outer covering for a knob type device.
